- Use a face oil instead of a moisturizer. Face oils are more concentrated than moisturizers, so you need less of them to get the same results. They're also more effective at hydrating your skin and preventing wrinkles.

- Exfoliate your skin regularly. Exfoliating removes dead skin cells, which can make your skin look dull and tired. It also helps your skincare products to penetrate deeper into your skin.
- Use a sunscreen every day, even when it's cloudy. Sunscreen is the best way to protect your skin from the sun's harmful rays, which can cause wrinkles, age spots, and even skin cancer.
- Get enough sleep. When you don't get enough sleep, your skin looks tired and dull. Aim for 7-8 hours of sleep per night.
- Drink plenty of water. Water is essential for keeping your skin hydrated and looking its best. Aim for 8 glasses of water per day.

These are just a few of the beauty editor secrets that I use to save money on my beauty routine. By following these tips, you can look your best without breaking the bank.

Here are some additional tips that I've learned over the years:

- Don't be afraid to experiment with drugstore brands. There are a lot of great drugstore brands that offer high-quality products at a fraction of the cost of department store brands.
- Look for sales and coupons. Many stores offer sales and coupons on beauty products, so it's worth taking the time to look for them before you buy.
- Buy in bulk. If you use a lot of a particular product, it can be cheaper to buy it in bulk. Just make sure to store it properly so that it doesn't go bad.

- Use natural ingredients. There are a lot of natural ingredients that can be used for beauty purposes. These ingredients are often cheaper than commercial products and they can be just as effective.

By following these tips, you can easily save money on your beauty routine without sacrificing your appearance. So what are you waiting for? Start saving today!
