The park is home to a wide variety of gravesites, from simple headstones to elaborate mausoleums. There are also several notable burials, including those of actress Gloria Swanson, singer Nat King Cole, and baseball player Ty Cobb.

In addition to its historical significance, Home of Peace Memorial Park is also a beautiful place to visit. The park is well-maintained, and its lush landscaping provides a peaceful and serene setting.

This unauthorized guide provides an in-depth look at Home of Peace Memorial Park. It includes information on the park's history, architecture, and notable burials. It also includes a map of the park, and a list of resources for further research.

History

Home of Peace Memorial Park was founded in 1904 by a group of prominent local citizens. The original park was only 20 acres in size, but it has since been expanded to its current size of 100 acres.

The park was designed by landscape architect Arthur G. Reynolds. Reynolds was a prominent landscape architect who also designed several other cemeteries in Southern California.

The park was originally intended to be a non-denominational cemetery, but it has since become primarily a Catholic cemetery. This is due in part to the large number of Catholics who live in Orange County.

Architecture

The architecture of Home of Peace Memorial Park is a mix of traditional and modern styles. The park's main entrance is a large, stone archway. The archway is flanked by two large gates, which are made of wrought iron.

The park's chapel is a beautiful example of Romanesque Revival architecture. The chapel was built in 1926, and it features a large, stained-glass window.

The park also has a number of mausoleums. The mausoleums are made of a variety of materials, including granite, marble, and sandstone.

Notable Burials

Home of Peace Memorial Park is the final resting place for a number of notable people. These include:

- Gloria Swanson - Actress
- Nat King Cole - Singer
- Ty Cobb - Baseball player
- John Wayne - Actor
- Walt Disney - Filmmaker
